Take One Book

Choose a story book and use it to help you complete the following activities.

Activities & Games!

- Design a new front cover for your book. Think about how you might encourage children to want to read your book.
- Choose a picture from your book and write some speech bubbles for the characters in it, you can follow the story or change the scene entirely!
- Introduce a new character to your story, think about how they might interact with the existing characters.
- Make a puppet theatre and design some puppets of your favourite characters. Act out your story.

What happens next?

What do you think might have happened to the characters in your story after the story ended? Have a go at writing that next part. What would everyone get up to? You could add a dramatic twist!

Phonics fun

These are the sounds that we are going to be looking at this half term.

or, aw, au

ur, er, ir

ow, ou

See if you can find them in your book, keep a tally and find out which is the most common.

Let's talk..

Is there a moral in your story? Does the main character learn a lesson? Why do you think the author has chosen this message?
