A Visit to the Elephants

Let's practise Sam's Sounds and Common Exception Words!

This week, we are learning to spell the common exception words because and different.

Today, we are learning to write words that contain ph saying /f/.

Kit and Sam were by the dolphin tank when Sam pulled Kit around the corner. “Would you really like to get closer to the animals that we are doing our projects on?” asked Sam, pulling out the magic map from her bag.

“Yes! Let’s go!” cried Kit. With that, the room began to fade around them.

Kit and Sam found themselves in a jungle at the back of a group of people. Everyone was watching a baby elephant and listening to a lady speak. “This is our new baby elephant. He is an orphan, so we are looking after him until he is old enough to be released.”

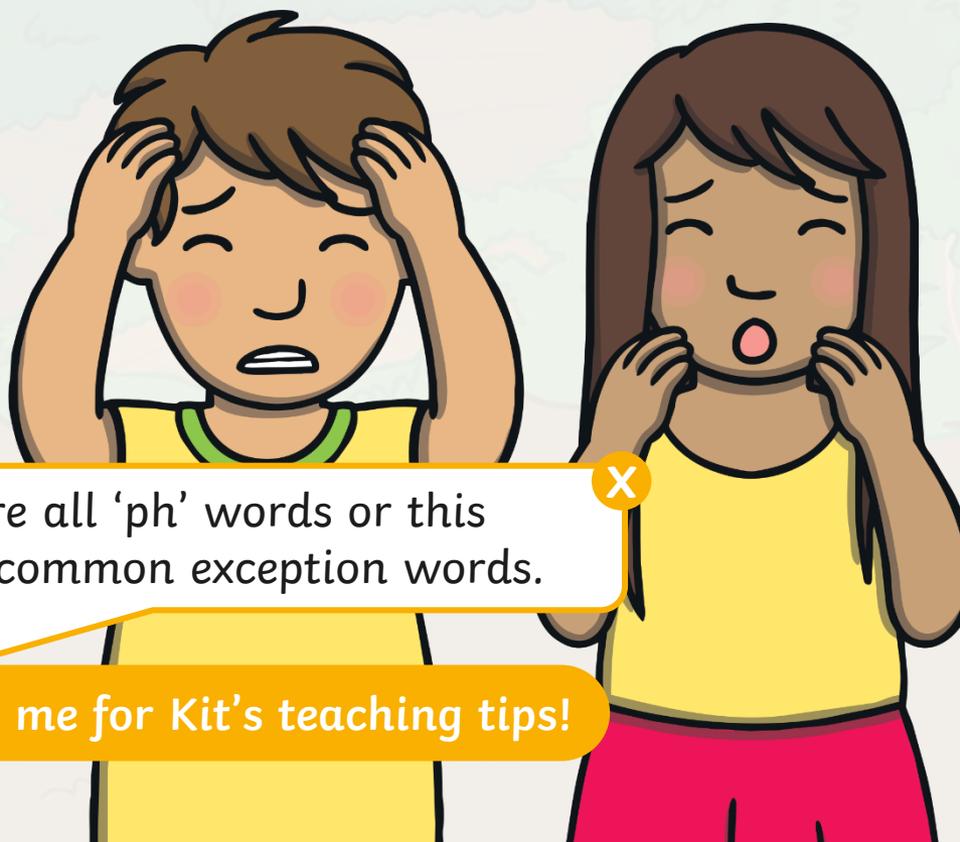

After she had finished talking, the lady came over to Kit and Sam and held out her hand. “Hi there,” she said smiling. “Sorry I did not see you at the beginning. Welcome to Thailand!”

Thanks for volunteering to help out with our elephants. Here is everything you need to know." She handed Kit and Sam a piece of paper with lots of writing on.

Oops! The jungle is hot and when they have a cool drink, Kit and Sam accidentally spill some water on the information sheet! Can you fill in the letters that are missing?

They are all 'ph' words or this week's common exception words.

The 'To Do' List

Kit and Sam are also given a 'to do' list.
Look at the picture and fill in the missing word.

This is a great whiteboard activity. X

To Do

1. Feed all the elephants.
2. Take a register of all the elephants you can see. The names on the register are in the same order as the alphabet.
3. Look at the photos of our elephants if you are not sure which is which.
4. Check that the new baby orphan elephant is okay.

Check

Kit, Sam and the other volunteers began by feeding the elephants.
“Did you know that elephants eat up to one hundred and sixty-nine kilograms of food per day?” said one of the other volunteers to Kit.

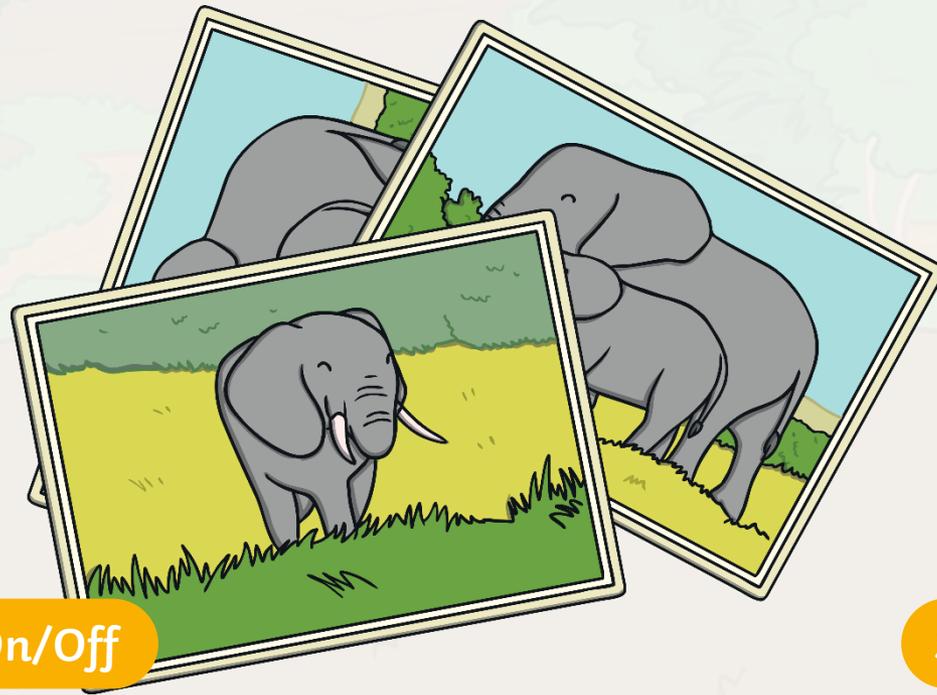

“Wow!” said Kit, looking at the bundle of leaves he was feeding the elephants. “That is a lot of leaves!”

Sentence Time

Kit and Sam are trying to take the register to see which elephants are there. They are not sure what some of their names are. What do Kit and Sam need to do? Write a sentence to match.

We need to look at the photos of the different elephants because we are not sure of their names.

Kit and Sam had worked their way through their 'to do' list. "Let's go for a rest," yawned Kit as he sat down with a bump. "No way!" said Sam, pulling Kit to his feet. "We have seen your elephants but I still need to go and visit my dolphins."
