Training Camp

Let's practise Sam's Sounds and Common Exception Words!

Today, we are learning to spell words that end in -er.

When we add -er to the end of an adjective, it means 'more', e.g. loud, louder.

Kit and Sam were stood in a giant hall where the training camp was being held. The next lesson was about to begin. Kit and Sam had no idea what was going to happen.

“Quick, Kit!” said Sam. “We need to hide. Let’s go behind that wall.”

Kit and Sam were speechless watching the superheroes. The superheroes were all lined up in a row, throwing balls. The balls looked a bit like tennis balls but Kit and Sam could not be sure. The voice from the speaker called out commands. “The harder you focus, the more power you will generate.”

“Wow! Look at that!” screached Kit in astonishment.

“Shh!” whispered Sam.

Some of the superheroes were staring at their ball, completely focused on it.

The superheroes seemed to be making their ball travel in different ways. When they raised their arm, the ball travelled higher. When they lowered their arm, the ball moved lower.

“Look at that ball! It is so high up,” exclaimed Kit quietly to Sam, “it has hit the beam!”

“Wow! Now it is travelling back at top speed to its superhero,” added Sam.

Much to Kit and Sam's surprise, one of the superheroes had seen them. "You two need to be quicker if you want to join in. It is nearly time for the next lesson. Quick, grab a mask and a cape."

Kit and Sam were a bit hesitant to join in. However, they fancied having a go. Once they had masks and capes on, they looked the part. Would they be able to make their balls travel higher than the superheroes did, using their magic powers?

Today, we have learnt...
